Cincinnati, April 18, 1859.
Having a desire, if possible, to benefit the afflicted, I append the following certificate:
About the 1st of last August I was taken with a lry, hacking cough, which kept growing worse until bout the middle of last January, such a violent cough set in all at once that it seemed at every moment it would rack me almost to pieces. I had tried "arious remedies, but without any durable relief; there did not seem to be any action in my bowels, and my liver was torpid also. I and my friends had given ip all hopes of my recovery; and one in particular, who had two sons die of quick consumption, and that (was following them speedily. At length, being reluces to a very low state of health, I was induced to ry Professor Williox's Electropathic irrestment, and, strange to say, to my great joy and satisfaction of experienced relief from the first application. My ough loosened, and I began to throw up masses of hick, foamy mucus; my appetite was a great deal setter; my bowels and liver were aroused to healthy cition; my night-sweats cessed, and in ten applicaions I was considered cured. I gained in flesh about wo pounds per week. It is now a little over a month ince I received the last treatment, and sufficient ime has elapsed to know that the cure is permanent.

This is to certify that the above statement is carrect, and that I believe Professor George W, Willoox, ties-"Calorie" vs. The City Waterworks-A Good Sell. We were honored yesterday by a visit from an officer of the City Water-werks, who, upon entering the office, remarked that he understood there was an engine in operation in the establishment, and that he came for the purpose of regulating our water rates. One of our courteous attaches, to whom the inquiry was addressed, looked at the official with surprise at first, but, in a moment afterward, an internal "bowelistie" chuckle took place, the prima facie evidence of a suppressed laugh, palpable to all but the official. The gentleman was immediately invited into our press-room, where our "Ericsson" was lying in a quiescent state.

He looked at it; walked around it; peered into it; scanned every point of it. The official was bewildered and dumbfoundered. He saw no pumps, no pipes for conducting water, yet, judging from his countsnance, it was plainly to be seen that it was beyond his comprehension how an engine could yond his comprehension how an engine could be propelled without the aid of "boiled water." that Austria's proposals as points to be sub-mitted to the Congress will be wholly inac-Said he, "Where's the place the water goes into the boiler. ?"

Now it happens that our boiler is a hot-air cylinder, and it also happened that several gentlemen were present, strangers in the city, who were inspecting its machinery, and who united a hearty laugh at the interrogatory. The official was answered that the engine was simply propelled by hot air, and that nothing aqueous pertained to it. His countenance elongated, and he looked chagrined and chopfallen.

After taking one long lingering farewell look at the caloric monster, who devoured nothing but air, the official remarked, "Gentlemen, I'm sold," and then gracefully re-

STEALING Hogs .- Justice J. H.T. Crane, of Storrs Township, yesterday sent a man named John Miller to jail, in default of $300 bail, to await a trial at the next term of the Criminal Court, upon a charge of stealing hogs to the amount of $34, which was preferred against him by Henry Guger. He made an attempt on the way to induce the constable to release him, by offering him a galvanized watch, worth about two dollars and a half; but it was too small an amount, and the circumstance will probably militate against him be-

ARIZONA .- Since the time of Colonel Poston's under the successful auspices of American emi-gration. The Apaches well know the differ-ence in character of the enfeebled Mexican and sturdy Anglo-Saxon, and still more jealous of these new comers, are extremely cautious of coming in direct conflict with them. The long deserted Spanish buildings are being fitted up, with the rude furniture of the frontiersman, while the fruitful soil, so many years lying fallow, is again being turned up by the plow. But I can not speak more forcibly of the rapidity with which American skill and hardihood are reclaiming this long lost garden district, than by stating that there is a newspaper published in the city of Tubac, the weekly Arizonian, a copy of which I send you by mail.

If American enterprise, thus individually directed, should be turning to profitable account the agricultural wealth of Arizona, it is no wooder that its number of arizona, it is no wooder that its number of arizona, it is no wooder that its number of arizona, it is no wooder that its number of arizona, it is no wooder that its number of arizona, it is no wooder that its number of arizona, it is no wooder that its number of arizona, it is no wooder that its number of arizona, it is no wooder that its number of arizona, it is no wooder that its number of arizona its number of arizonal arizo wonder that its much more attractive mineral wealth should have gained attention. While, wealth should have gained attention. While, however, its alluvial surface can be tilled by each emigrant without requiring any considerable capital, to plow the rocky interior of its mountains requires a combination of capital and labor, and this necessitates the organization of a body of men. The Arizona Pioneer Association, through its agents, have purchased the titles to several valuable mines in the Santa Rita mountains in Arizona as well the Santa Rita mountains in Arizona, as well as those of other mines in Sonora and Chihuahua, contiguous to the American frontier. They have employed scientific men to visit and report upon each of them, and the results of these investigations have been so promising as to enable them to secure abundance of capital to carry out their operations.

From Washington. Washington, April 28.—This afternoon Sonor Mata was formally presented to the President by Secretary Cass. In delivering the letter which accredits him as the Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of the Mexican Republic to the Government of the United States, he conveyed to the President dent, at the same time, sentiments of friend-ship and high regard, which the Constitutional Government as well as the people of Mexico entertain for him and for the citizens of the Great Republic. Senor Mata continuing, said: The first, and certainly the most gratifying of my duties in the act of presenting myself to your Excellency in my official character, is to assure you of the sincere desire which I shall endeavor to draw into close unity the relations endeavor to draw into close unity the relations of your Excellency's government and those of the government of my own country. The desire by which I am actuated of contributing to the extent of my ability to the development of the interests of both countries, as also by the hope which I cherish, that the two republies already united by common principles and like interests, will become daily more so, until they shall have held up to the world the glo-rious evidence of two nations connected by bonds of perfect brotherhood. It is peculiarly gratifying to me, Mr. President, to have it in my power to be able to present to your Excel-lency, on this occasion, the well-deserved tribute of my profound respect for your person, and to give expression to a fervent wish which I entertain for the advancing march of the people of the United States, under your Excellency's wise administration, in the pathways of freedom, civilization and progress, in which they have so nobly entered.

The President, in the course of his reply, sale that the government and the people of the United States had always regarded with the deepest concern the events transpiring in the sister Republic. Their desire had always been to establish such relations as would enable the good neighborhood; and to fully develop their mutual and reciprocate interests. In recognizing the Constitutional government of Mexico, we had followed the course heretofore pursued, and this was done as soon as it was as-certained that the government was capable of maintaining its authority and was sustained by the people. He was gratified that for the first time in their history they had so generally de-clared for the constitution and laws; and that the revolutionary movements of a military chieftain had been so signally defeated. The interview is represented as of a mighly

SOMEWHAT UNUSUAL.—A few days since an unmarried woman sued out a writ of Habeas Corpus, in one of the Louisana District Courts, for the recovery of her son, two and a half years old, which the father of the child and his wife had illegally kept from her. It appeared, on the trial, that the mother had handed over the child to its father at a time when it was a trouble and a disgrace to her. He accepted it, and was doing for it all that any father could lo, besides which, he loved it and petted it fondly. The gentleman's wife, with a magnanimity quite rare in such cases (knowing as she did all about the child), had adopted it she did all about the child), had adopted it also, and loved it as if it were her own. The father not being able to prove that the mother had given the child to him for good and all, the Judge decided that the child must be delivered over to its mother. With this order of the Court, and accompanied by the mother, a Deputy Sheriff went to the residence of the father to get the child and pass it over to its mother. He described the scene created by his mother. He described the scene created by his visit as the most touching and distressing thing he ever saw. The adopted mother, turning pale as death, tried to put him off upon different pretexts, and to delay the separation as long as possible. Taking the child up stairs, to wash him and dress him, she looked tairs, to wash bim and dress him, she looked him up, and told the deputy he could not have him till the husband came home. When the husband arrived the deputy politely explained his business, and was politely treated. The gentleman went up stairs, and after a while came down with his wife and child. The little fellow was nicely dressed; and his adopted mother brought down with him a whole arm-'ul of his daintiest little clothes and ruffles, etc., besides a number of toys that had been purchased for the pet at Christmas. All these she laid on the floor at his feet, without saying a word; too proud to display either affection or grief before the hated mother of her pet, yet showing symptoms of the most intense sup-pressed agony. The father acted as became a nan under such circumstances, allowing the child to go quietly and without fuss. MARKETS.
